

Maggie FitzPatrick is the commissioner on the DC Arts and Humanities Commission – a position she was appointed to by the mayor of Washington, D.C. and confirmed by the DC Council last fall.

Prior to that, she served as chief corporate affairs officer at Exelon. Past stints include leading global comms and corporate affairs roles at some of the world's leading brands, including CIGNA and Johnson & Johnson.

Prior to joining the in-house ranks, she was EVP at APCO Worldwide.

FitzPatrick's numerous accolades include being named by the Washington Business Journal as a top C-suite Executive in 2019. She is also a member of the PRWeek Hall of Femme and has been selected to PRWeek's annual Power List on numerous occasions.

She is dedicated now to community and public service: Bundler for Biden. She serves on two nonprofit boards: Arena Stage and Southeast Tennis and Learning Center.